

The Colour of Magic

The magician to be admired,
Must mystify and delight.
Conceptualize and be prepared,
To get the illusion just right.

The horseman to be honoured,
Must have a well-conceived plan.
The challengers to be conquered,
By being the fastest he can.

The designer to be cheered,
Must transform and surprise.
To reveal what is covered,
To see the wonder in their eyes.

Horseman and designers,
Magicians of a kind.
Imagine, implement, put on show,
Blow the viewer's mind.

Top hats and tails,
Or smart casual preferred.
It's magic we're after,
Couture conjured.
